(3) The actual limit set by the Legislature and enforced by the Office of State Finance is the line that reads FY-2009 TOTAL EXPENDITURES. The other lines that add up to that number are an attempt to quantify each programs total expenditures from all sources of revenue. At this point it is less than perfect and should be viewed with some skepticism. The number for each program is not a ceiling that must not be breached and it is not a number that must be budgeted up to. It is simply an attempt to quantify each program in terms of total expenditures from all sources of revenue and should be viewed as such. Clarification of these numbers would be welcomed.

FY-2009 ALLOCATIONS

(3) The actual limit set by the Legislature and enforced by the Office of State Finance is the line that reads FY-2009 TOTAL EXPENDITURES. The other lines that add up to that number are an attempt to quantify each programs total expenditures from all sources of revenue. At this point it is less than perfect and should be viewed with some skepticism. The number for each program is not a ceiling that must not be breached and it is not a number that must be budgeted up to. It is simply an attempt to quantify each program in terms of total expenditures from all sources of revenue and should be viewed as such. Clarification of these numbers would be welcomed.

(3) The actual limit set by the Legislature and enforced by the Office of State Finance is the line that reads FY-2009 TOTAL EXPENDITURES. The other lines that add up to that number are an attempt to quantify each programs total expenditures from all sources of revenue. At this point it is less than perfect and should be viewed with some skepticism. The number for each program is not a ceiling that must not be breached and it is not a number that must be budgeted up to. It is simply an attempt to quantify each program in terms of total expenditures from all sources of revenue and should be viewed as such. Clarification of these numbers would be welcomed.

(3) The actual limit set by the Legislature and enforced by the Office of State Finance is the line that reads FY-2009 TOTAL EXPENDITURES. The other lines that add up to that number are an attempt to quantify each programs total expenditures from all sources of revenue. At this point it is less than perfect and should be viewed with some skepticism. The number for each program is not a ceiling that must not be breached and it is not a number that must be budgeted up to. It is simply an attempt to quantify each program in terms of total expenditures from all sources of revenue and should be viewed as such. Clarification of these numbers would be welcomed.
